CULTURE

Another Kind of Paradise

Short Stories from the New Asia-Pacific

Edited by Trevor Carolan

IDEAL FOR high school and college literature courses and Asian studies

Well-crafted stories can provide a glimpse into the lives of characters who are relevant to anyone—whether they hail from sweltering Rangoon, hyper-urban Tokyo, or rural South Korea.

Another Kind of Paradise presents 21 contemporary short stories that delve into the contending passions, beauties, and contradictions of contemporary life throughout the East and Southeast Asian region. This wide-ranging anthology of fiction in English features writers at the top of their craft in Japan, China, Korea, Vietnam, the Philippines, Malaysia, Laos, Cambodia, Bangladesh, and all over the continent. As front-line witnesses, the contributors document deep social, political, and economic changes in the region through their stories. The result is compelling reading ideal for Asian literature and Asian studies courses or for anyone interested in world literature, or the latest voices from the Asia-Pacific world. The anthology includes notes on each author's works and life, as well as an insightful overview of the field by the editor and a foreword by the editors of Manoa Journal. Cheng & Tsui, 2009, 6 x 9, 336pp.

“[These] stories help shine a light on worlds in transition, on worlds we share. It's an important book.”

— Joseph Blake, Pacific Rim Review of Books

Vegetal Buddhas

Ideological Effects of Japanese Buddhist Doctrines on the Salvation of Inanimate Beings

By Fabio Rambelli

One of the most important questions taken up in East Asian Buddhist doctrines is that of the scope and range of Buddha-nature. This text offers a discussion of the Buddhist discourse of nonsentients, or the idea of plants and inanimate objects becoming buddhas. The discussion provides an intellectual history with an explanation of the ideological and economic reasons behind the doctrines' introduction. ISEAS, 2001, 5.25x8.5, 124pp.
